

Guidelines to Apply for OpenTox Internship Program

OpenTox Association

Intern Profile:

Education:

- Be a university undergraduate, graduate or postdoctoral student in the sciences or engineering
- Interested and able to carry out a small project (part-time over 3-6 months) progressing OpenTox Goals

Interest and Experience:

- Have a strong interest in computational toxicology, predictive toxicology, in silico or in vitro biology or toxicology, or related fields
- Have a taste for scientific knowledge development, sharing and interaction
- Have relevant scientific and technical expertise and /or working experience
- Excellent academic track record
- Ability to carry out both individual and collaborative work

Language:

- Must-be fluent in English (spoken and written)
- Any other language is considered as an asset

Application:

Candidates interested in the internship can apply online on the OpenTox website. For the application to be valid, you must complete the internship application form by:

1. Answering the listed questions on the form
2. Uploading your CV and motivation letter

Person to Contact:

For any questions regarding the internship you can contact Ms. Oana Florean at oana@douglasconnect.com.